

THE HOME CIRCLE

Pleasant Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

A HALLOWE'EN PARTY

In the minds of most of our young men and women Halloween tide is associated with memories of frolic and fun; they do not look back into the dim, superstitious past, when Halloween or Holy Eve was a religious observance, a day set apart for fasting and prayer for the rest of the souls for departed friends. According to superstition restless spirits came forth to wreak vengeance or wait a mourning. This superstition was deep-rooted and few were brave enough to disregard the custom of fasting and prayer. Witchcraft and the power of the evil eye became hopelessly mixed up with the laying of wreaths and ghosts and many an 'auld guidwife's reputation was blasted on account of the mutterings of age and the brewing of herbs.

As time moved on and the working of charms and casting of spells continued, Halloween assumed more the characteristics of a merry-making festival, and a Halloween party is now the greatest fun for young and old.

The season is one of the easiest imaginable in which to entertain one's friends. No date in the calendar lends itself so admirably to entertainments as the witching time of Halloween. Effective trifles for decoration come at a minimum of expense, or they can easily be made at home by exercising a little ingenuity.

The following simple ideas of an At Home with Witches and Goblins have been found good fun for our young people.

The usual Halloween invitation has a mysterious sound. This one is always in good form: "Hecate will hold high carnival at my home October thirty-first. Come dressed in sheets and mask. Come prepared for Hecate's messengers, who will be known by clanking of chains."

The rooms are decorated with the usual Jack-o'-lanterns, real ones, and those made of pumpkins. The hall is dimly lighted and a figure in ghostly costume stands there to receive the guests as they enter, and puts forth a hand covered with wet salt. A pair of ghosts walk up and down the lawn clanking lengths of heavy chains while the guests are gathering; and over in one corner of the lawn was the witch's cave and the witch muttering over the fire.

After the guests have assembled the ghosts with the clanking chains lead each one to a large pumpkin that had been placed on the table on which all the letters of the alphabet had been carved. Each guest was presented a hat pin, then blindfolded and told to stick the pin into one of the letters. The letter pierced will show the initial of the name of one's future husband or wife.

Roasting chestnuts is another Halloween custom that never grows old. The roasting chestnuts are named in particular. If a nut hisses and steams it shows its owner has a dreadful temper; if both nuts behave this way it foretells for their life together; if one or both pops away it means separation; if the lovers, but if both burn to ash side by side, their owners will have a long and happy life.

There are many Halloween games that are always enjoyed and many original forms of entertainment are on the subject of shortbread, so popular with Scotch and English folk.

"But, good as was the old-fashioned kind," remarked our hostess, "it was so extremely rich that the heavy taste lingered long after eating."

"Well," said Betsy, "there's nothing like the shortbread we have at our house—Lorna Doone Biscuit."

"I was talking to mother about them only the other day," said Lorna.

"Yes, they are the best I ever ate," said Betsy.

"No other country ever offered such shortbread excellence as is found in LORNA DOONE Biscuit."

The reason you eat so many of them is that they are not over-rich, while their superb flavor is a constant incentive to eat more. The name LORNA DOONE is on every biscuit.

Sold by the pound and in the famous In-cer-seal Trade Mark package.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY, Umeeda Biscuit.

"Yes, that's the beauty of all National Biscuit Company products—they are always ready—night and day—and always fresh. Their ready-prepared by the hostess.

A popular closing for the evening is to serve the supper on the lawn. The two ghosts with chains lead the guests up stairs, down stairs, round the house, down the witch's cave, where the witch tells the fortune of each one. Then masks are removed and a picnic lunch of chicken sandwiches, pumpkin pie, ginger bread, pickles, baked apples and coffee is boiled on the witch's fire.

THE MISSION OF SUNSHINE

In reality, there is but one thing in the world that brings appreciation. That is experience. Often as I have heard the value of sunshine dwelt upon, I did not know until yesterday how much it meant. It was a black and frowning afternoon. My head, full of memories of the past, was feeling badly since the morning. I had been a little cross perhaps, and in my disappointment in not having the physical courage to look into the last book which lay on the table, I had banished even my kitten from the room and sat dejectedly looking out of the window. Several coal wagons passed, the drivers with grimy faces and rain dripping from their hats. A dog that should have been white, trotted home with ears laid back and tail between his legs. Half a dozen bedraggled chickens pecked about in the parking and a stray cow bawled from some unseen quarter of the alley. To add to it all, a dreary funeral procession filed past, and with a groan I threw myself into a chair by the fire, wondering if the day would ever end. Just then somebody walked into the front hall, and before I could walk out, in she came, laughing and crying out:

"Oh, you old darling! Why such a long face! As long as the moral law! Here—take that pinch and rouse yourself. Her eyes were like stars, her cheeks glowing and her little chin lifted itself out of the rich furs she wore in the sweet audacity only known to her. She chattered and laughed and sang a snatch of a new opera, then said her errand was to get a pattern I had promised her. Nestled in her furs was a great crimson rose that gleamed tremulously in the amber room, like the mystical flower of Hawthorne's Zerkowia. She overturned a pile of manuscript and tumbled the sofa pillows and kissed me with her soft, warm mouth, and ran off before I had a chance to say a dozen words. The outer door closed, and I was alone again. But a streak of crimson was gleaming under the sunset clouds. A pigeon sat on the window ledge and looked in at me. A boy went past playing a harmonica, and all down the streets the lights were burning. From the rug I gathered a petal she had dropped, and through the room was the fragrance of the rose she wore. Is it not something of a mission to be sunshine in the world?—Carrie M. Ogilvie, in Word and Works.

GREAT MASS OF PROOF

Reports of 50,000 Cases of Kidney Troubles, Some of Them Bethel Cases

Each of some 6,000 newspapers of the United States is publishing from week to week, names of people in its particular neighborhood, who have used and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder troubles and urinary disorders. This mass of proof includes over 50,000 recommendations. Bethel is no exception. Here is one of the Bethel cases.

G. L. Davis, coal dealer, Main St., says: "My back troubled me on account of doing heavy lifting. There was a dull ache across my kidneys and my kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Bosserman's Drug Store, relieved the backache and regulated my kidneys. I take Doan's now to keep my kidneys in good condition and always get prompt results. I place great confidence in them."

Price, 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Davis had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

The marriage of Miss Eva Farnham, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Farnham, to Lemont J. Norton, Jr., of Howard, R. I., took place at the home of the bride last week. Rev. Allen Brown of the Universalist church officiated. The double ring service was used. Miss Hazel Farnham, sister of the bride, acted as honor maid, and Mr. Herman Farnham attended the groom. Only the immediate family witnessed the ceremony. The bride was charmingly gowned in white crepe de chene, and the honor maid wore a gown of changeable pink and green tulle. Following the ceremony a delicious lunch was served. The young couple left for a short wedding trip, after which they will take up their residence in Howard, R. I. The bride's traveling suit was navy blue with hat to harmonize. The bride has always lived in Rumford, and since graduating from the Rumford High school she has been employed in the office of the Maine Tel. & Tel. Co. BY MOTHER

Gertrude Lamarre, six-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anselme Lamarre, 20 Main Street, Sanford, Maine, was saved from fits by the prompt action of her mother who administered Dr. True's Elixir.

Mrs. Lamarre wrote the following to Dr. J. F. True & Co.: "My daughter, Gertrude, had dizzy spells and could not even go out for she always complained of being sick. She used your elixir (Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller.) She never had any fits since. I feel very grateful to you."

Symptoms of worms: Constipation, drowsy stomach, enlarged upper lip, full belly, with occasional grinnings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. True's Elixir has been faithful in its duties as a family Laxative and Worm Expeller, since 1851—over 68 years reputation. Every one can improve their health by simply looking which the bowels—a pure herb, laxative which Dr. True's Elixir is, will promptly relieve all worm and disorders. AT ALL DRUGGISTS—Adv.

DEMAND FOR RABBIT SKINS

In recent years several kinds of fur, formerly of so little value as to be no inducement to the trapper, have been raised in price, and consequently collecting them has been made profitable. Rabbit pelts, which are extensively used by hat makers, are among these products. One eastern concern has announced that it will need 10,000 rabbit skins during 1919 and 1920, and its desires are far as possible to secure them from American sources. This is an indication of a market which should interest many a farmer boy. This fall and winter dried, cured rabbit skins will probably bring a reasonably good return. They are sold by the pound which will contain seven or eight skins. Many farm boys can readily acquire, in the course of the winter, large numbers of skins which will net them a tidy sum and, in addition, they will have the pleasure of trapping experience. The United States Department of Agriculture will supply any inquirer with the names and addresses of possible purchasers of rabbit skins and other pelts.

FRANK BOHN

What is Bolshevism? What is its danger to the countries on this side of the Atlantic? Who is Kolschok? Is Germany on the verge of revolution or is she ready to receive the Kaiser again? These and similar questions are in everybody's mind at the present time. What would we not give to know the answers?

The best way to learn the correct answers is to listen to those who know. Citizens of this town will have a rare opportunity in the near future to have these questions answered by one of the foremost experts in America.

Dr. Frank Bohn, one of America's most brilliant sociologists, will give his remarkable lecture, "Revolutionary Europe," at the coming Chautauqua to be held here Nov. 7, 8, 10.

Dr. Bohn is an orator and economist of well known ability.

He was in Germany at the outbreak of the war and then retired to Switzerland. He has since been in all of the revolutionary countries of Europe and knows his subject thoroughly.

Hear him and understand what Europe is doing.

HOW OUR MILK IS USED

Estimates made by the United States Department of Agriculture show how the 87,005,000,000 pounds of milk produced in the United States annually are utilized. Forty-four and one-half per cent is used as fresh milk for human food purposes, while 36 per cent of the gross supply is converted into butter, and 4.5 per cent is made into cheese; another 4.5 per cent is transformed into condensed milk, 4 per cent is used in ice-cream making, 4 per cent is used in feeding calves and hogs on the farms of origin, and 2.5 per cent is lost in shrinkage and other waste of the dairy industry.

THE HOME INDUSTRY

Knitting Rugs is the most attractive and best paid form of home employment for women who want to turn the hours not required for their household duties, into money.

Seven years ago, the President of Pinkham Association Inc. conceived the idea of turning what had formerly been an article of no established value, Hand Braided Rugs, into a business. Women throughout the State who had formerly made rugs from the family rag bag, and for their own use only, became Associate Rug Makers and the product was placed on the market.

To-day, there are several hundred Associate Rug Makers who are devoting all or part of their time to braiding rugs right in their own homes and receiving cash for the time they are giving to the work. Practically every community in the State has a rug maker who is a Pinkham Associate and she is earning good pay.

Many of the Associates who are on the pay roll to-day have been making Pinkham Braided Rugs continuously since 1912. Quite a few of them earn from six to seven hundred dollars a year and attend to their household duties as well.

Full particulars explaining how to become a Pinkham Associate Rug Maker may be had upon request by sending your name and address to Pinkham Associates, Inc., 310 Washington Ave., Portland, Maine—Adv.

THE YELLOW CLOUD

By George Wilson Jennings

Look up! There's just one cloud in sight,
A yellow cloud as sunlike bright,
That, like a little golden boat,
Across the clear blue sky seems to float.
Oh! how I wish that cloud were ours,
The color of the cornflowers,
And, sitting on it, you and I
Were gaily sailing round the sky!
Oh! wouldn't it be pleasant?
Oh! wouldn't it be grand?
If we could only own it—
That little yellow cloud!

As free as birds we then would go
Wherever the wind might blow—
Above the rivers gleaming bright,
Above the hills with snowdrifts white,
Upon the steeples of the town,
We would hear far below us
The great bells ringing loud,
Oh! don't you wish we owned it—
That little yellow cloud!

Why wish for what will ne'er be done?
That little cloud is not for me;
But if it were, and you and I
Were on it sailing round the sky,
Who knows we might be wishing then,
Oh, if we could get down again
To better be humble,
By far, than to be proud;
And on the ground we'd rather
Than sailing on a cloud.
Brooklyn, New York.

TIDE CROWDED STREET

By William Cullen Bryant

Let me move slowly through the crowd
Of street,
With an ever-shifting train,
And the sound of steps that beat
The murmuring walks like autumn rain.
How fast the flitting figures come!
The mild, the fierce, the stony face—
Some bright with thoughtless smiles,
And some Where secret tears have left their trace.

They pass to toil, to strife, to rest—
To halls in which the feast is spread—
To chambers where the funeral guest
In silence sits beside the dead.

And some to happy homes repair,
Where children, pressing cheek to cheek,
With main embraces shall deplore
The loneliness they cannot speak.

And some, who walk in calmness here,
Shall shudder as they reach the door
Where some who made their dwelling
dear,
Its flower, its light, is seen no more.

Teeth, with pale cheek and slender frame,
And dreams of greatness in their eyes!
O'er them to build an early name,
Or early in the task to die!

Here men of trade with eager brow
Who in new battles in the world
Toss golden fortunes, tower they now,
Or with the glittering spires in air?

Was of this crowd tonight shall tread
The dewy hill daylight gleams again!
Was sorrow o'er the wistfully dead?
Who writhes in throes of mortal pain?

Some, famished, shall think how long,
The cold, dark hours, how slow the night,
And some, who kneel amid the throng,
Shall hide in tears of shame and fight.

Each where his looks or passions call
They pass and heed each other not Till in the hush, who holds them all.

To his large fate and boundless thought,
True struggling lives of life that seem
In wayward, aimless course to tread
An eddy of the mighty stream
That rolls to its appointed end.

HAVE YOU?

Have you lifted anybody
From the wayside dust today?
Are you meet about your business
To the old familiar way?
Have you brightened anybody
With the brightness of your smile?
Are you tread your path of duty
In the old fashion today?

Have you talked to anybody
Through your busy hours of life
Of the happiness of labor?
And the satisfaction after strife?
Have you tried to make them happy?

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army over 30 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Life Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active health and can walk with ease or write all day without complaint. Friends are surprised at the change. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, sear and the complaint by taking treatment supposed to drive Life Acid out of your blood and body. I took Mr. Ashleson's fifty years to rid me of the rheumatism, over doctors and restore his strength from 'The Inner Mysteries,' now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of this paper wishes 'The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism' sent, simply send a post card or letter to Dr. J. P. Ashleson, 1111 Broadway, New York City. Send now, but you forget! If you do not receive your copy, send the card and I will send you a good news and opportunity to receive a free copy. All who read will receive it by return mail without any charge whatever."

And to blossom and to sing
As the days went by so gladly
With life's sweetness on their wings?
Have you heartened anybody
With your own heart's joy today,
As they struggled all around you
In the conflict and the fray?
Have you made the world seem better
As with gladness and with trust
You have lifted some one's spirit
From the shadows and the dust?

THE VISITOR

By E. A. Guest in the Detroit Free Press

A blend of good and bad, and of laugh ter and of tears
And I reckon when it's over, when I've lived my string of years
And have been the best I shall be
And have known all I shall know
And my visit here is ended and it's come my time to go
I shall turn, as friends departing, to this kindly world and say
I am grateful for the gladness that was strewn along my way.

A blend of loss and gain, and of bitter and of sweet,
But I reckon at the finish, when I've met all I shall meet
And for me no day is dawning that shall bring another friend.
Or victory, or failure, when my visit's at an end
I shall turn as one departing from a kind and gentle host
And thank the world for gladness that in life was uppermost.

I wonder every morning what new joy
will come my way,
What new friend I shall discover with the passing of the day
And what glad surprise is waiting, for it really seems to me
That each day is always different than
I thought 'twas going to be,
And when my stay is over, when my share of time I've had
I shall thank the world for doing all it could to keep me glad.

I have wept and I have whispered,
I have suffered days of pain,
But have lived to wake to smiling and to view the sun again
I've encountered selfish people, and some brutal men I've seen
But the most of them I've lived with have been big and kind and clean
And the stars will be forgotten and the wrong will disappear
And I'll thank the world, at parting, for the joys it gave me here.

SOUTH PARIS

Mrs. Mary Kingsbury Robbins, 65 years of age, passed away Saturday night, Oct. 25, at 6:30 o'clock, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Abigail Abbott, at Long Look Farm. She was born in Paris, September 1854, the daughter of Abigail (Lethbridge) and Elbridge Gray, and was one of seven children, Dexter W. Gray, Selma M. Gray, Madison Gray, Rhoda Gray, one who died in infancy, and William L. Gray, all of whom are deceased but one brother, William L. Gray of South Paris.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving O. Barrows, on Thursday evening, Oct. 23, a very mysterious party was held. Invitations were sent out by the host and hostess assisted by Harold Nell, each invitation contained different requests, and a Black Cat pin depicting weariness from a long journey. The couple receiving the invitation to start early, followed directions to a certain place, where the second couple were awaiting and in many corners and hidden places at South Paris, whispering, snickering couples going hither and thither were in readiness. By mysterious paths the party finally arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barrows and here they were directed to find a string which led them into the woods. This trail led them over fences, through gardens, to the back yard of Alton Jacobs' home, where they went in the back door and out the front. From here they followed the string to the front door of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hais on Main street, thence to the Barrows home on Barrows street, where upon pulling the string the electric lights flashed on and the following party marched in: Earle Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Butts, Eugene Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thayer, Misses Nora Dunham, Ruth Bolster, Hazel Heath, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Prescott, Harold Nell and the host and hostess.

There was a large attendance at the harvest supper at Deering Memorial church, Thursday evening, served by the Ladies' Aid. A very fine program was given in the evening consisting of a piano solo by Miss Esther Tyler of Bethel; violin solo, Alfred Coia of Orleans, Vt.; selections by an orchestra of five pieces directed by Frank Knapp and a reading.

The funeral services of Mrs. Dorcas Mathilda Richardson were held at the home in Gothic street, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, attended by Rev. D. F. Faulkner of Deering Memorial church. The burial was at Milton Placitation.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swan celebrated their 14th wedding anniversary at the home on Myrtle street, Wednesday evening. It was a surprise party to Mr. and Mrs. Swan, the neighbors going in and presenting Mr. and Mrs. Swan with a sum of money.

RED CROSS GIVE FULL ACCOUNTING

War Council Tells How Millions Contributed by Public Were Used For Relief.

BIG TASK IS DESCRIBED

In Twenty Months $154,000,000 Was Spent Overseas and $119,000,000 In the United States.

Washington, (Special.)—Through complete report of the work of the American Red Cross in the war, Chairman Henry P. Davison, on the eve of its annual convention of members during the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2, 11, has rendered an accounting of the many millions given it by the American people to help our fighting men and our allies. The statement is, in part, as follows:

"The war council of the American Red Cross is now prepared to make complete accounting to the American people of money contributed and expended, as well as the work done by the American Red Cross during the period in which the war council was in control of its affairs. This council was appointed May 19, 1918, and went out of existence February 28, 1919.

"It was the practice of the war council to give complete publicity to its policies and finances, but it is only now that a picture of the war period as a whole can be presented. 'It is the feeling of the war council that a report in this summarized form should be made directly to the public which provided the money and gave the effort which made the American Red Cross a success.

"A statement of the American Red Cross effort and finances since the war council relinquished its control will be made to the public through the executive committee, and it is important, therefore, that the fact that this report covers the period only until March 1, should be carefully noted."

Following are certain round figures covering American Red Cross participation in the war, as revealed by the war council's report:

Some Outstanding Figures.

French Barracks Now "Y" Canteen

Before America's arrival in France this room had been used by French troops as a barracks. It is now a Y. M. C. A. canteen for our boys.

NEW BEDFORD PASTOR AS SOLDIERS' GUIDE

New England Man Shows Doughboys Wonders of Versailles

Paris.—"I expected this trip to Versailles to refresh my memory on French history," remarked the Medical Corps major, "but I'd forgotten it would bring to mind a lot of American history, too."

"Yes," agreed the lieutenant with "AO" on his shoulder, "A trip like this refreshes a fellow's memory on a lot of historical facts he never knew before."

They were two of a party of 140 officers of the United States Army and Navy who were taking the Y. M. C. A. sightseeing trip to Versailles, the most popular of all the sightseeing trips in Paris.

Every day except Mondays the Y. M. C. A. charters two special trains on which it takes an average of 800 enlisted men and from 100 to 150 officers to the beautiful palace which cost Louis XIV so much that the grumbling started among the people which culminated in the guillotining of Louis XIV. And fully ninety per cent of those men are surprised at the things of especial interest to Americans which they find in that palace of kings.

William B. Geoghegan, pastor of the First Congregational Society of New Bedford, Mass., the mentor of the twelve Y. M. C. A. guides who every day conduct those parties through Versailles, has written a lecture which largely is responsible for the interest the Americans take in the palace. Mr. Geoghegan wrote the lecture for his own use, when only about eighty men a day were visiting Versailles, and he the only guide, but it proved of such unusual interest to the American visitors that it was adopted as the model from the lectures of all the Y. M. C. A. guides there.

It was in Versailles that the treaty that established the independence of the American colonies was signed, and later it was there that Benjamin Franklin and John Jay strengthened the friendship between France and America which has lasted longer than that between any other two great nations of modern times. In the Hall of Mirrors is a great picture of Washington at Yorktown, and there are, of course, numerous mementoes of Lafayette, though the Lafayette memorial of greatest interest to Americans, the monument erected from a fund contributed by the school children of America, is in the gardens of the Louvre.

These and other historical facts and anecdotes of special interest to Americans Mr. Geoghegan has woven into his lecture.

into a sympathetic and appealing talk which he gives as he leads the men from chamber to chamber.

Mr. Geoghegan's lecture is so informative that French people who can understand often attach themselves to his party instead of following the French guides, all of who are authorized on the historic interest of the palace. A French lieutenant-colonel and three other French officers were in the party yesterday, and they not only listened with much interest but continually nodded approval. In fact, their approval was so pronounced that an "AO" lieutenant said:

"I'll bet this 'Y' man is a French-American."

"Probably," agreed the Medical Corps Major. "He certainly has remarkable knowledge and understanding of France."

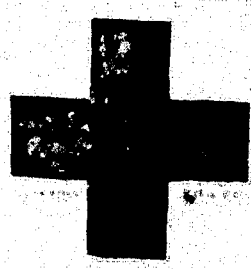

Mr. Geoghegan, however, is very much American. His home and his life work have been in Massachusetts, not merely as a minister, but as a worker for public health. It was his work before the state legislature which gave New Bedford, Mass., its tuberculosis hospital which is one of the model institutions of America, and he has given much of his work to similar efforts. He came to France in June 1918, and first served with the Foyers Soldat on the Toul Front.

When the Americans took over the Toul sector he joined the 89th Division and served with it through all its offensive, going to the front with the first load of supplies when the division started its big push, and establishing a canteen at Hony. Hony was under fire all the time, and men were killed there every day, but Mr. Geoghegan and his associates held on and carried supplies to the men in the pits—they had had no time to dig trenches. Often they worked at night, as they could not have a fire in the day, because of the tall-tale smoke, realizing its service to the army. Even when ill with the flu, Mr. Geoghegan stuck to his post. A month after the signing of the armistice his physician ordered him to the south of France, but instead he came to Paris and took up the sightseeing work, realizing its service to the army.

"The American soldiers do not come to Paris to dissipate, but to learn all they can of its beauty and historic interest," said Mr. Geoghegan yesterday. "They are kept so busy seeing the sights that most of them have little time, as well as little inclination, to go wrong. The fact that last week more than 4,000 men were served by the various Y. M. C. A. sightseeing trips in Paris is proof of the doughboy's desire to make the most of his brief stay here. America has a right to be proud."

RED CROSS LEADER IS COMING TO NEW ENGLAND NEXT WEEK

DR. FARRAND WILL SPEAK AT PUBLIC MEETINGS IN PORTLAND, BOSTON AND PROVIDENCE—VISIT PRECEDES THIRD ROLL CALL.

The Third Red Cross Roll Call will open on November 2, Red Cross Sunday, and close on November 11, Armistice Day. The primary purpose is to enroll members for 1920. Every membership is a vote of confidence in the Red Cross. Be ready to cast YOUR vote. Help put New England over its present total of 1,500,000 members.

Dr. Livingston Farrand, the executive head of the American Red Cross, who has been on a speaking tour of the United States since September 20, in the interest of the Third Red Cross Roll Call, which takes place from November 2 to 11, and of the new Red Cross Health Center plan, will come to New England next week for three days, and will deliver addresses in three cities under the auspices of the New England Division of the organization.

DR. LIVINGSTON FARRAND, Head of the American Red Cross, Who Will End Nation-wide Tour in New England Next Week. Dr. Farrand Became the Executive Leader of the Organization last March.

Dr. Farrand will arrive in Boston at 11:45 A. M. on Thursday, October 23, from Cleveland. He will deliver his first address in the New England Division in Portland, Me., at eight o'clock that evening, under the local auspices of the Portland Chapter. James Jackson, Manager of the New England Division, and Chas. C. Jones, Division Director of Civilian Relief, will accompany Dr. Farrand to Portland and will also speak. The meeting will be held in Frye Hall, 76 Spring street, and many Red Cross officers and workers who will be unable to attend the big meeting in Boston will hear Dr. Farrand at Portland.

On Friday afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock, Dr. Farrand will address some 3000 school teachers of Boston and the vicinity in Tremont Temple, Boston, at a Junior Red Cross meeting of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter. A big Division mass meeting will be held in Symphony Hall, Boston, on Friday evening at eight o'clock, with Dr. Farrand as the principal speaker. It is hoped that Col. James H. Perkins, former Red Cross Commissioner to Europe, will also speak. Mr. Jackson will preside.

Dr. Farrand's final appearance in the Division will be in Providence, R. I., where he will speak at three o'clock Saturday afternoon at a meeting arranged by the Providence Chapter in Memorial Hall, and there will also be addresses by Mr. Jackson and Mr. Jones.

From Providence Dr. Farrand will return to Washington to assume general direction of the Roll Call campaign for members and funds—principally for members. His visit to the New England Division will do much to stimulate the campaign forces, which are planning to put New England's Red Cross membership away over its present total of a million and a half.

All the meetings at which Dr. Farrand speaks will be public, and there will be no tickets of admission. The people are urged to attend them. The H. G. of L. hasn't hit Red Cross memberships. They're still a dollar.
